INTERNATIONAL LEGISLATIVE FRAMEWORK

The United Nation: The UN is the international organization with the broadest range of membership. The UN actively operates a program to fight money laundering; the Global Programme against Money Laundering (GPML), which is headquartered in Vienna, Austria, is part of the UN Office of Drugs and Crime (UNODC).

The Financial Action Task Force (FATF): The Financial Action Task Force (FATF) sets international standards and promotes effective implementation of legal, regulatory and operational measures for combating money laundering, terrorist financing and other related threats to the integrity of the international financial system.

Middle East and North Africa Financial Action Task Force (MENAFATF): MENAFATF was established in 2004 as a FATF Style Regional Body (FSRB), for the purpose of fostering co-operation and co-ordination between the countries of the MENA region in establishing an effective system of compliance with those standards. The UAE is one of the founding members of MENA FATF.

OBJECTIVE AND SCOPE

Tigris Gold Refinery FZE is dedicated to the preservation of its integrity and the prevention of its exploitation for money laundering, terrorist financing, or other illegal activities through precious metals transactions with suppliers, customers, and associated parties. This policy is applicable to all staff, business relationships, counterparties, and customers, irrespective of the working environment. Suppliers are mandated to adopt and maintain AML/CFT practices consistent with relevant jurisdictional frameworks and to strictly prohibit any dealings with sanctioned individuals or entities.

DEFINITIONS

MONEY LAUNDERING

Money laundering is the term used to describe the process by which criminals disguise the original ownership and control of the proceeds of criminal conduct by making such proceeds appear to have derived from a legitimate source.

TERRORIST FINANCING

Terrorist financing refers to activities that provide financing or financial support to terrorists. Transactions associated with terrorist financing tend to be in smaller amounts than is the case with money laundering. It may involve funds raised from legitimate sources, such as personal donations, profits from businesses and charitable organizations.

SANCTIONS

Sanctions are political and economic decisions that are a part of diplomatic efforts by countries, multilateral or regional organizations against states or organizations, either to protect national security interests or to protect international law and defend against threats to international peace and security.

STAGES OF MONEY LAUNDERING

There are three stages of Money Laundering:

Placement: During placement, “dirty” money derived from criminal activities is placed in the financial system whether such money arises from the purchase or sale of the precious metal or stone.

Layering: To conceal the illegal origin of the placed funds and thereby make them more useful to criminals, the funds must be moved, dispersed, and disguised. Layering is the process of disguising the source of the funds through layers of financial transactions.

Integration: Once the funds are layered and can no longer be traced back to their criminal origins, they are integrated into the financial system and now appear “clean” and available for use by criminals. If layering has been successful, integration places the laundered money back into the economy and financial system in such a way that they appear as clean and legitimate.

In order to implement RBA for effective AML/CFT Compliance and effective identification of ML/TF/PF risk, Tigris Gold Refinery FZE will conduct an initial baseline business-wide ML/FT risk assessment across all business lines and processes, considering the following risk factors:

Tigris Gold Refinery FZE will regularly review and update the risk assessment methodology to account for any material changes or significant developments, including:

- Internal changes (e.g., business expansion, new products or services).
- External developments (e.g., regulatory changes, emerging risk typologies).
- Results of the UAE National Risk Assessment (NRA) or Topical Risk Assessments, ensuring these are integrated into the organization's risk management approach.

As part of the business-wide risk assessment, Tigris Gold Refinery FZE will use identified inherent ML/FT risks as the basis for determining the nature and intensity of risk mitigation controls required across the organization and subsequently apply appropriate mitigation strategies and allocate resources commensurate with the identified risk levels to reduce potential exposure to ML/TF threats. The assessment of inherent ML/FT risks and of the effectiveness of the risk mitigation measures will result in a residual risk assessment. The residual risk assessment will help determine remaining risks. Upon the residual risk assessment, Tigris Gold Refinery FZE will consider implementing additional controls to ensure it operates within acceptable risk levels and its business risk appetite.

- Determines the effectiveness of the AML/CFT risk mitigating measures in place by using information such as audit and compliance reports or management information reports.
- Determines the residual risk as a result of the inherent risks and the effectiveness of the AML/CFT risk mitigating measures.
- Establishes based on the residual risk and the risk appetite, whether additional AML/CFT controls have to be put in place.

- Determines the rationale and circumstances for approving and performing manual interventions or exceptions to model-based risk weightings or classifications.
- Is properly documented and maintained, regularly evaluated and updated, and communicated to management and relevant personnel within the organisation.
- Is tested and audited for the effectiveness and consistency of the risk methodology and its output with regard to statutory obligations.

Tigris Gold Refinery FZE will document all risk assessments, including both inherent and residual risks, and will regularly review and report the results to senior management. The findings will guide decision-making related to resource allocation and risk mitigation strategies.

When conducting the business-wide ML/FT risk assessment, Tigris Gold Refinery FZE will ensure that the assessment implements the following elements:

- Likelihood or Probability: Assess the likelihood of occurrence of each identified inherent ML/TF risk.
- Timing: Consider when these inherent risks are likely to materialize, whether in the near or distant future.
- Impact: Evaluate the potential impact of these inherent risks on the organization, including financial, operational, and reputational consequences.

Based on the assessment of likelihood, timing, and impact, Tigris Gold Refinery FZE will:

- Classify identified risks into categories such as high, medium, or low, or use a more nuanced classification (e.g., medium-high or medium-low) where appropriate.
- Use this classification to prioritize ML/TF risks, ensuring that higher-risk areas receive greater attention and resources.

The AML/CFT Law defines ‘suspicious transactions’ as transactions related to funds for which there are reasonable grounds to believe that they are earned from any felony or misdemeanour or related to the financing of terrorism or of Illegal organizations, whether committed or attempted.

Tigris Gold Refinery FZE shall establish and update the indicators to identify possible suspicious transactions and report the suspicious transactions to the FIU without any delay when the company has suspicions, or reasonable grounds to suspect, that the proceeds are linked to a crime, or to the attempt or intent to use funds or proceeds for committing, concealing, or profiting from a crime. Tigris Gold Refinery FZE is not required to have knowledge of the underlying criminal activity nor any founded suspicion that the proceeds come from a criminal activity; reasonable grounds are sufficient. The suspicious nature of a transaction can be deduced from various information, such as indicators, behavioural patterns, or CDD information. Refer to Appendix 1 for non-exhaustive list of red flag indicators to help identify suspicious transactions or activity.

Appendix 1 also includes a set of risk indicators that may be directly or indirectly related to the abuse of DPMS and signal potential misuse of the PMS sector or the establishment of DPMS entities for the purpose of ML or TF. These indicators are particularly important in the context of the business-to-business (B2B) commerce transactions conducted by Tigris Gold Refinery FZE .

INTERNAL REPORTING

Employees in the first line of defence, such as relationship managers and back-office operations staff are crucial in identifying and preventing money laundering and the financing of terrorism and illegal organizations and must understand the ML/FT risks relevant to PMS sector.

These employees play a key role in managing customer and third-party risks, as well as in promptly escalating potentially suspicious activities and should receive appropriate training on potential ML/TF risks, risk mitigation, and reporting. Employees should also understand the regulatory requirements related to their roles, the red flags associated with their customers, products, services, delivery channels, and geographic regions, as well as the proper escalation procedures to management and Compliance Team, without compromising their responsibility to report suspicious transactions.

If any employee of Tigris Gold Refinery FZE identifies unusual or potentially suspicious activity, regardless of the value, he/she shall escalate it promptly to the Compliance Officer via email for further analysis and decision whether to report the STR to the FIU or not.

INVESTIGATION OF ALERTS

Employees of the Compliance Team shall review alerts (e.g. automated transaction monitoring alerts, employee referrals, and law enforcement requests) and assess whether further investigation is necessary, ensuring that the rationale for their decision is documented. If the information available at the alert review stage is sufficient to warrant a filing of STR without further investigation, the Compliance Team's employees shall promptly escalate the alerted activity to the Compliance Officer for review. The investigation of alerts, along with its conclusions, will be thoroughly documented, including the decision to either close the alert or promptly report the transaction as suspicious.

For any alerted activity assessed to require further investigation, the Compliance Team will conduct the investigation, analyse all relevant information, document the findings and provide a recommendation on whether STR shall be filed. The turnaround time for Requests for Information (RFIs) is 3 working days. No unanswered or delayed RFIs during the course of the investigation shall not delay the timely submission of recommendations to the Compliance Officer regarding the filing of STR.

Tigris Gold Refinery FZE must report a transaction (pending, in progress, or past) to the FIU immediately once its suspicious nature becomes evident. This occurs when, based on an objective assessment of the available information, there is reason to believe that the transaction is suspicious. Tigris Gold Refinery FZE must promptly investigate alerts and potential indications of ML/FT and immediately report the transaction upon concluding that it should be reported to the FIU. Tigris Gold Refinery FZE must also be able to demonstrate that immediate and continuous action was taken from the moment the alert was raised.

Tigris Gold Refinery FZE

In the absence of any response from the UAE FIU, taking into consideration the type, size and circumstances of the transaction; normal average processing times for the specific transaction type; type of customer or business relationship; nature and size of the business; and precise nature of the suspicion, the Compliance Officer shall reserve the discretion to approve or deny the case. All business rejection cases by Compliance should be backed by the Tigris Gold Refinery FZE owner.

When an STR involves a transaction that is anticipated, pending, or already in progress, Tigris Gold Refinery FZE will make every effort to delay the execution or completion of the transaction, allowing reasonable period of time to receive feedback, instructions, or additional information requests from the FIU. In doing so, Tigris Gold Refinery FZE will avoid "tipping off" the customer or raising suspicion that the transaction is under investigation or has been reported. Tigris Gold Refinery FZE will take the following measures, either individual or combined, to delay the transaction:

- Delaying the transaction processing without providing an explanation for as long as possible
- Informing the customer that the transaction has been delayed due to an unspecified operational, technical, or other issue, and that efforts are being made to resolve it
- Requesting additional information and/or supporting documentation related to the transaction, customer, or counterparty, such as evidence of relevant licenses or authorizations, shipping or customs/bank or additional identification documents, etc
- Informing the customer that paperwork for the transaction has been lost and asking for it to be resubmitted
- Notifying the customer that the transaction is awaiting internal approval
- Employing any other reasonable delaying strategies, while ensuring compliance with the obligation to avoid "tipping off" the customer

If any new suspicion arises during a period when anticipated, pending, or in-progress STR that has already been reported to the FIU is being delayed, Tigris Gold Refinery FZE shall promptly report to the FIU as a follow-up to the original STR. Examples of such additional suspicions include, but are not limited to:

- New adverse information related to the transaction, the business relationship, or the counterparty.
- Unusual behaviour exhibited by the customer due to the delay in the transaction, such as sudden cancellation of the transaction or termination of the business relationship, threats directed at coercing Tigris Gold Refinery FZE or its employees into completing the transaction, etc.

If a sufficient period has not yet passed before receiving feedback, instructions, or requests for additional information from the FIU concerning an STR, and it becomes impossible for the DNFBP to further delay the execution of the reported transaction without raising the customer's suspicion that it is being investigated or reported, Tigris Gold Refinery FZE shall seek specific instructions or permission from the FIU regarding the execution or rejection of the transaction.

Tigris Gold Refinery FZE may not receive instructions or other feedback from the FIU regarding filed STRs, or there may be a delay in receiving such communication that exceeds reasonable timeframe deemed by Tigris Gold Refinery FZE . In these situations, Tigris Gold Refinery FZE shall assess how to appropriately handle the STR and the business relationship overall, considering all relevant risk factors.

- Reassessing the risk associated with the business relationship and re-evaluating the customer's risk profile
- Initiating an enhanced customer due diligence review
- Considering conducting an enhanced background investigation (including, if appropriate, utilizing a third-party investigation service)
- Taking any other reasonable measures commensurate with the nature and size of their businesses while ensuring compliance with the obligation to avoid "tipping off" the customer

Tigris Gold Refinery FZE is not required to terminate the business relationship after filing an STR, however when deciding to terminate a business relationship for which an STR has been filed and no feedback has been received from the FIU after a reasonable period, Tigris Gold Refinery FZE shall formally notify the FIU of the company's intention to proceed with the termination unless there is an official objection.

Tigris Gold Refinery FZE may use externally provided sanctions screening services to fulfil company's legal and regulatory obligations to screen its customers and transactions. However, Tigris Gold Refinery FZE should be ultimately responsible for complying with AML/CFT and sanctions requirements, even while using third-party model to assist with meeting its compliance obligations. The screening system should be appropriate to the nature, size and risk of Tigris Gold Refinery FZE business.

Where reliance is placed on vendor's system, Tigris Gold Refinery FZE should understand the mechanism behind the thresholds and tuning and conduct quality control checks on a regular basis.

Proliferation Financing Risk

Tigris Gold Refinery FZE should assess and mitigate proliferation financing risk as defined more narrowly in the FATF's Recommendation 1:

Proliferation Financing (PF) risk refers to the potential breach, non-implementation, or evasion of the targeted financial sanctions obligations referred to in FATF Recommendation 7, namely those pursuant to UNSCRs relating to the prevention, suppression, and disruption of proliferation of weapons of mass destruction (WMD) and its financing.

Three stages of PF include: program fundraising, disguising the funds and procurement of materials and technology.

- Program Fundraising: A proliferating country generates financial resources to cover domestic expenses. These funds may come from the country's national budget, profits from an international commercial network, or revenues from an overseas criminal enterprise. Example: export of prohibited commodities, e.g. coal, iron and copper by North Korea (DPRK) to generate revenue as part of intricate trade-based payment schemes to support its WMD and conventional weapons program development.
- Disguising the Funds: The proliferating state injects assets into the international financial system, often involving foreign exchange transactions, for trade purposes. This process can range from simple methods, such as using standard correspondent banking channels, to more complex approaches involving networks of procurement agents and front companies. Countries facing comprehensive sanctions often attempt to bypass these restrictions by employing sophisticated techniques to obscure the origin of funds. Both Iran and North Korea (DPRK) have been known to use front companies, shell companies, and complex, opaque ownership structures to evade and circumvent targeted financial sanctions (TFS).
- Procurement of Materials and Technology: The proliferating state or its agents use concealed financial resources to acquire materials and technology through the international financial system. This stage also involves making payments for the shipping and transport of these goods, e.g. employment of various procurement strategies by Iran, including the use of front companies for prohibited procurement and leveraging country's petrochemical sector to obscure the intended use of items acquired for its nuclear program.

UAE Control List

Cabinet Resolution No. 50 of 2020 contains the list of strategic and Dual-Use goods controlled under UAE law (UAE Control List). The UAE Control List implements internationally agreed Dual-Use goods subject to import and export control, including the Missile Technology Control Regime (MTCR), Nuclear Suppliers Group (NSG), the Wassenaar Arrangement (WA), the Australia Group (AG), the Chemical Weapons Convention (CWC), and the Organization for the Prohibition of Chemical Weapons (OPCW).

The UAE Control List is organized into 12 categories based on the type of technology involved. Each category provides a technical description of the items and specifies their control parameters. An overview of these categories is provided below

Category	Type / mandate	Example of controlled items used in WMD programs
0	Nuclear Materials	Nuclear Reactor - Pressure Tubes - Zirconium Metal Tubes - Steam generators

Enhanced Due Diligence for Customers and Transactions

Tigris Gold Refinery FZE should conduct Enhanced due diligence (EDD) on all customers and transactions that are assessed as high-risk for PF for the purpose of mitigating the PF risk of a designated person concealing their identity or ownership of an entity. Another objective of customer EDD is to gather information about the customer's expected behaviour, and to identify the expected end users of any strategic goods or Dual-Use goods and the customer's expected exposure to high-risk jurisdictions, including trans-shipment hubs.

Customer EDD measures should include, at minimum, the following:

- Obtaining additional information about the customer and the intended nature of the business relationship and updating more frequently the identification data of the customer and beneficial owner.
- Obtaining additional information about the customer's source of funds and wealth.
- Requiring customers to provide a list of main suppliers and customers and conducting basic due diligence and public records searches on these entities.
- Reviewing the customer's customer acceptance policy, TFS policy, and any policies related to export controls, and requiring the customer to introduce changes if these policies are not sufficient.
- Obtaining senior management's approval to start or continue the business relationship.
- Conducting enhanced monitoring of the business relationship by increasing the timing and number of controls applied.

EDD should also be applied to transactions identified to involve any proliferation sensitive goods or services, irrespective of the customer being assessed as high-risk for PF or not.

Shell and Front Companies

While shell companies often fulfil legitimate economic functions, both shell and front companies have been misused by designated individuals and entities to conceal their involvement in transactions and evade TFS. Complex networks of such companies can make it challenging for both the private sector and authorities to trace the flow of illicit funds globally. Hence, for the purpose of mitigating this PF risk, Tigris Gold Refinery FZE should conduct thorough customer due diligence, and EDD where necessary, to comprehensively identify their customers and their beneficial owners. Tigris Gold Refinery FZE should also be vigilant for shell companies, especially those from high-risk jurisdictions, in transactions, when relevant.

PF Red Flags

A list of red flags for possible PF activities is embedded in Appendix 5.

Update of KYC information

KYC information should be reviewed periodically, based on the risk categorization of the customer and supplier, with the Lowest Updating period being annually and Highest Risk Being Done every quarterly.

- The transaction involves the use of front or shell companies. Both shell and front companies can be used to facilitate TBML, but in different ways. A shell company has no real operating activity, and is used to hide ML activity and the identities of individuals involved, to obscure the money trail. The transaction involves the receipt of cash (or by other payment methods, including cheques or credit cards) from third party entities that have no apparent connection with the transaction or front or shell companies or wire instructions / payment from parties which were not identified in the original letter of credit or other documentation. Transactions that involve payments for goods through cheques, bank drafts, or money orders not drawn on the account of the entity that purchased the items also need further verification

- DPMS entity(s) transfer payments amongst each other, which are related to 'borrowings' or 'loans' that is referred to as 'back-to-back' or 'loan-back'.

- Funds are sent or received via international transfers from or to higher-risk locations.

RED FLAG INDICATORS FOR POSSIBLE PF ACTIVITIES

Customer Profile Risk Indicators

- During onboarding, a customer provides vague or incomplete information about their proposed trading activities. The customer is reluctant to provide additional information about their activities when queried.
- During subsequent stages of due diligence, a customer, particularly a trade entity, or its owners or senior managers, appears in sanctioned lists or negative news, e.g., relating to past ML schemes, fraud, other criminal activities, or ongoing or past investigations or convictions, including appearing on a list of denied persons for the purposes of export control regimes.
- The customer is a person connected with a country of proliferation or diversion concern, e.g., through business or trade relations, as identified through the national risk assessment process or by relevant national CPF authorities.
- The customer is a person dealing with Dual-Use goods, goods subject to export control goods, or complex equipment for which he/she lacks technical background, or that is incongruent with their stated line of activity.
- A customer engages in complex trade deals involving numerous third-party intermediaries in lines of business that do not accord with their stated business profile established at onboarding.
- A customer or counterparty, declared to be a commercial business, conducts transactions that suggest that they are acting as a money remittance business or a pay-through account. These accounts involve a rapid movement of high-volume transactions and a small end of day balance without clear business reasons. In some cases, the originators appear to be entities who may be connected with a state-sponsored proliferation program (such as shell companies operating near countries of proliferation or diversion concern), and the beneficiaries appear to be associated with manufacturers or shippers subject to export controls.

- A customer affiliated with a university or research institution is involved in the trading of Dual-Use goods or goods subject to export control.
- Customer activity does not match the customer's business profile, or end-user information does not match the end-user's business profile.
- A new customer requests a letter of credit transaction while awaiting approval of new account.

Account and Transaction Activity Risk Indicators

- A transaction involves person or entity in foreign country of proliferation concern.
- A transaction involves person or entity in foreign country of diversion concern.
- A transaction involves financial institutions with known deficiencies in AML/CFT controls and/or domiciled in countries with weak export control laws or weak enforcement of export control laws.
- Wire transfer activity shows unusual patterns or has no business or apparent lawful purpose.
- The originator or beneficiary of a transaction is a person or an entity ordinarily resident of or domiciled in a country of proliferation or diversion concern, e.g., DPRK and Iran.
- Accounts or transactions involve possible companies with opaque ownership structures, front companies, or shell companies, e.g., companies do not have a high level of capitalization or displays other shell company indicators. Countries or the private sector may identify more indicators during the risk assessment process, such as long periods of account dormancy followed by a surge of activity.
- Business or compliance personnel identify links between representatives of companies exchanging goods, e.g., the same owners or management, physical address, IP address, or telephone number, or activities that appear to be coordinated.
- The account holder conducts financial transactions in a circuitous manner.
- A transaction or account activity involves an originator or beneficiary that is domiciled in a country with weak implementation of relevant UNSCR obligations and FATF Standards or a weak export control regime (also relevant to correspondent banking services).
- The customer of a manufacturing or trading firm wants to use cash in transactions for industrial items or for trade transactions more generally. For financial institutions, the transactions are visible through sudden influxes of cash deposits to the entity's accounts, followed by cash withdrawals.
- Transactions are made on the basis of "ledger" arrangements that obviate the need for frequent international financial transactions. Ledger arrangements are conducted by linked companies that maintain a record of transactions made on each other's behalf. Occasionally, these companies will make transfers to balance these accounts.
- The customer uses a personal account to purchase industrial items that are under export control, or otherwise not associated with corporate activities or congruent lines of business.
- Account holders conduct transactions that involve items controlled under Dual-Use or export control regimes, or the account holders have previously violated requirements under Dual-Use or export control regimes.

Maritime Sector Risk Indicators

- An order for goods is placed by firms or persons from foreign countries other than the country of the stated end-user.

- A trade entity is registered at an address that is likely to be a mass registration address, e.g., high-density residential buildings, post-box addresses, commercial buildings, or industrial complexes, especially when there is no reference to a specific unit.
- The person or entity preparing a shipment lists a freight forwarding firm as the product's final destination.
- The destination of a shipment is different from the importer's location.
- Inconsistencies are identified across contracts, invoices, or other trade documents, e.g., contradictions between the name of the exporting entity and the name of the recipient of the payment; differing prices on invoices and underlying contracts; or discrepancies between the quantity, quality, volume, or value of the actual commodities and their descriptions.
- A shipment of goods has a low declared value vis-à-vis the shipping cost.
- A shipment of goods is incompatible with the technical level of the country to which it is being shipped, e.g., semiconductor manufacturing equipment being shipped to a country that has no electronics industry.
- A shipment of goods is made in a circuitous fashion (if information is available), including multiple destinations with no apparent business or commercial purpose, indications of frequent flags hopping, or using a small or old fleet.
- A shipment of goods is inconsistent with normal geographic trade patterns, e.g., the destination country does not normally export or import the goods listed in trade transaction documents.
- A shipment of goods is routed through a country with weak implementation of relevant UNSCR obligations and FATF Standards, weak export control laws, or weak enforcement of export control laws.
- Payment for imported commodities is made by an entity other than the consignee of the commodities with no clear economic reasons, e.g., by a shell or front company not involved in the trade transaction.

Trade Finance Risk Indicators

- A trade finance transaction involves a shipment route (if available) through a country with weak export control laws or weak enforcement of export control laws.
- A transaction involves persons or companies (particularly trading companies) located in countries with weak export control laws or weak enforcement of export control laws.
- A transaction involves a shipment of goods inconsistent with normal geographic trade patterns (e.g., Does the country involved normally export/import good involved?).
- Based on the documentation obtained in the transaction, the declared value of the shipment is obviously under-valued vis-à-vis the shipping cost.
- Prior to account approval, the customer requests a letter of credit for a trade transaction to ship Dual-Use goods or goods subject to export control.
- Lack of full information or inconsistencies are identified in trade documents and financial flows, such as names, companies, addresses, final destination, etc.
- Identifying documents seem to be forged or counterfeited.
- Identifying documents seem to be tampered or modified documents with no apparent explanation, especially those related to international trade.
- Transactions include wire instructions or payment details from or due to parties not identified on the original letter of credit or other documentation.
